COMPLETE CHANGE MAY BE OUTCOME

Reorganization of Street Department is Predicted as Result of Wrangle.

DEMANDS FOR EFFICIENCY

Pointed Out that in the Past There has Been Big Waste of Funds in Work Done.

That a complete re-organization of the street department will grow out of the differences existing between Mayor Ross and the majority of the council on the question of sweeping the paved sections of the city, is the belief of many who have given special attention to the present situation. Since the dispute originated a number of citizens have manifested a greater personal interest in the street department and the manner in which it is conducted than ever before and many suggestions are being offered not only as to how the wrangle can be adjusted, but also, how greater efficiency can be obtained.

Those who have looked into the subject thoroughly are practically agreed that in the past there has been an enormous waste of funds in the street department. They have found no one especially responsible, but that the lack is due to the defective system. The present council realized this soon after it went into office and in the hope of finding the sources of waste, inaugurated a system by which an itemized statement on each contract was to be filed. By these statements the finance committee has been enabled to locate some of the "weak spots," but the end is not yet reached.

In speaking of the situation today one man said:

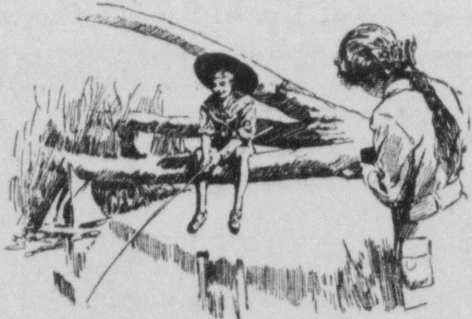

"A citizen will not employ five men for a week to do the work that one man can do in two or three days. It's poor business to pay for work that is not rendered. Now, in my opinion, if this plan would be followed out in the street department, much of this dispute would be avoided and there would be plenty of money to sweep the improved streets and keep all the gravel streets in good repair, and then have an ample amount for sewers."

Another suggestion has been made that as practically all street work is done under the supervision of the city engineer, that the office of street commissioner be entirely abolished and that the engineer be placed in sole control of the work. If this plan were carried out, it is stated, the engineer could have an assistant at each place where work is carried on who would see that the engineer's instructions are followed to the letter.

There are objections to this plan, however, as the street commissioner usually looks after the work to be done and then reports to the engineer. If the commissioner's office were abolished someone else would have to look after this work or the reports made directly to the engineer.

There is little likelihood of any change of this kind being made during the present administration, how-

FIRST ATHLETIC MEET OF SCHOOL YEAR HELD

Base Ball Teams of Freshmen and Sophomore Classes Stage the Opening Clash.

The first athletic meet of the school year was scheduled at the school athletic grounds on North Ewing street at 4 o'clock this afternoon. A base ball game between the Freshmen and Sophomores was arranged and several track events planned. The teams have been practicing for the ball game for several days under the direction of Coach Hendershot and many members of the two classes as well as of the entire high school were expecting to witness the contest. Other games will be scheduled during the fall.

The track has been put in good condition and considerable work done on the base ball diamonds since the opening of the fall term. Last year many interesting inter-class contests were held there. The athletic director has decided that no foot ball team will be organized in the local school this year, but that attention will be given to basket ball, base ball and track.

FIRE PREVENTION TO GET ATTENTION

Subject will be Discussed by the Teachers of the Local Schools on October 8.

PROCLAMATION BY GOVERNOR

Public Urged to Remove Trash and Debris Which Might Result in a Costly Fire.

Fire Prevention Day will be observed in the Seymour schools Friday, October 8, in accordance with the recent proclamation of Governor Ralston. On that day the local teachers will discuss with the pupils the necessity for guarding against fires which originate from carelessness and the great loss that results each year from this source.

On that day the people of Indiana are asked to remove all trash and other debris in which fires might start and to see that the proper safeguards are placed around stoves and furnaces before they are put into winter use.

W. E. Longley, state fire marshal, has been sending literature throughout the state to teachers and others and has personally written to them to ask them to co-operate in the statewide movement to prevent fire losses next year. Special attention has been called to carelessness which results in the majority of the fires in this state. It is said that practically all fire losses could be avoided if proper precautions were used to prevent stoves from overheating and if trash and rubbish was removed from likely places of origin.

The fire marshal said he would be glad to send programs and materials to any of the teachers in the state, who desired to celebrate the day, or to any organization which intends to make the day a feature for one of their programs.

PROPOSE CENTRAL DELIVERY SYSTEM

Local Grocers Sounded Out by Representative of Concern That Would Like to Manage It.

PRESENT SYSTEM IS COSTLY

Under System Suggested Orders Would be Delivered From all Stores at Scheduled Hours.

Local grocers have been approached by a representative of a Shelbyville concern relative to the adoption of a central delivery system here. The plan proposed is similar to that in use in a number of Indiana cities and provides for a certain number of deliveries on a regular schedule each day. The same wagons would be used by all the grocers and they would be required to pay a certain amount each month for the service.

Nothing definite has been done here regarding such a system and it is stated that the representatives will return here later to fully set forth his plans. Some of the dealers have suggested that the Retail Grocers' Association could conduct such a system equally as well as an outside concern and possibly at a lower cost. They are in favor of putting it under local management, that is, if it is decided to adopt it.

According to the proposed plan four deliveries would be made daily. Three might possible be made during the morning and the fourth in the afternoon, or two each in the morning and the afternoon, which ever was decided as the most convenient and satisfactory. The wagons would start from the business session at scheduled hours. They would call at the groceries and collect the orders before each delivery which would mean that the orders from customers would have to be given in ample time to have them filled before the wagons called at the stores.

Local grocers say that under the present system the delivery expense is enormous. It is estimated that all the groceries in the city pay around $6,000 a year for this service. The National Grocers' Association estimates that the cost of each delivery is not less than four cents and in some localities it will average four-and-one-half and five cents for each.

Grocers say that many of their customers do not make a complete order at one time, but will phone in the supplies needed as they think of them. Because of this it is frequently necessary for one grocer to deliver several small orders during one forenoon to one house when the entire order could have been filled at one time.

It is not uncommon for grocery stores to receive an order for a cake of yeast selling for one cent to be delivered. If the figures of the National Association are correct grocers would lose several cents on each delivery of that kind. One grocer stated today that he was thinking seriously of making no deliveries when the order amounted to less than twenty-five cents.

Under the central delivery system small orders could be delivered as

COMPANY OF MEXICANS SURPRISE U. S. SOLDIERS

Private Butterfield is Killed and Captain Anderson is Wounded in the Attack.

By United Press.

Brownsville, September 24.—Private Butterfield was killed and Captain A. P. Anderson was wounded when thirty Mexicans fired on ten American soldiers who were sleeping in an Arroyo near Progreso early today.

The soldiers, taken by surprise, deserted their guns and fled. The weapons were taken by the Mexicans who disappeared in the brush before re-enforcements arrived. The Mexicans crossed the Rio Grand under cover of darkness and escaped.

The main detachment hurried to the scene and found the camp entirely stripped of its equipment. Troop B of the 12th Cavalry, was summoned and is leading in the search.

Excitement is high and it is feared an attempt will be made to lynch the Mexicans if they are found.

Automobile Manufacturer Said He Would Withdraw Money From Banks Participating.

By United Press.

New York, Sept. 24.—The Anglo-French loan is today nearer the final stage than is officially admitted. This was asserted today by a financier who has played an important part in the discussion.

Two important points are now to be decided on. One is that the amount will not exceed half a billion dollars. The other is that Russian will not officially be a signer of the agreement.

By United Press.

Berlin, September 24 (by wireless).—German industrial associations today served warning that participation in the Anglo-French loan by American firms doing business in Germany will be considered justification for the breaking off of all commercial connections.

By United Press.

New York, September 24.—"If any of the banks which have money belonging to the Ford motor company are to personally participate in the Anglo-French loan I will withdraw every penny from them." This was Henry Ford's ultimatum expressed here today.

"If I had my way I would tie a tin can to the Anglo-French commissioners and send them back where they came from."

"You know who are in favor of the loan?" he asked.

"The militarists want to see the loan successful, for they are the ones who will profit most."

PERJURY CHARGES MAY BE NEXT STEP

Deputy Prosecutor Roach Says Witnesses Who "Backed Down" in Bell Trial May be Prosecuted.

FARBER'S TESTIMONY NOTED

Claimed That Saloon Keeper Did Not Testify on Stand as He Did Before Grand Jury.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Sept. 24.—Perjury charges may be filed against witnesses for the state in the trial of Mayor Joseph E. Bell, who are "backing down" on evidence said to have been given before the Marion County grand jury that returned the indictment.

Deputy Prosecutor Roach intimated today that an attempt may be made to make an example of Harry Farber, saloon keeper, who, Roach asserted gave evidence to-day at the trial which differed materially from evidence given the grand jury.

On several occasions state witnesses have proved disappointing to the prosecution.

Farber testified to-day that he gave Kissel, who has the city mule contract, $25 for the campaign. He gave negative answers, however, when Prosecutor Rucker asked whether Kissel didn't tell him he "had better meet the contribution," that it "would be the best thing to pay," that it "would be the best thing to stand with the administration" and that "if you don't pay the police will light on you."

Rucker intimated that before the grand jury Farber answered "Yes" to all those questions.

Roach then said that the grand jury stenographer probably would be brought in and that the state would then decide "whether to institute prosecution." Michael Ryan for the defense said: "This threat of prosecution made before the jury is unbecoming to the prosecution in this case."

Objection was made to the statement of Roach and to the reading of the grand jury questions but the state was sustained.

That the state will require four weeks more to introduce its evidence in the Bell trial was the statement of Deputy Prosecutor Roach this afternoon.

The court announced that an afternoon session will be held tomorrow. The jury has asked for night sessions in order to hasten the trial.

The prosperity of a city is in direct proportion to the local pride. Where local pride runs high, prosperity has a firm foothold. Such a town is a good place to live and do business in.

Paint helps to a remarkable degree in spreading an impression of prosperity throughout a community. It gives a fresh, new, inviting look wherever it is used. Municipal buildings, stores and homes feel its good effects. Growing business is bound to be one of the direct results of a liberal use of paint, not from any magic in the paint, but because of the pride which is stimulated.

FARMER PULLED UP STAKES FOR ROAD

William Spray of This County Objected to Course of New Highway in Bartholomew Co.

INTERFERED WITH WORKMEN

Failed to Understand That Roadway Turned at County Line and Would Miss His Barn.

William Spray, a farmer living in Hamilton township, on the Bartholomew county line, temporarily stopped the work of surveying for a new road when he thought it would pass through his barn.

The Columbus Republican has the following: William Spray, farmer, native of Prussia, now resident of Jackson county and, Civil War veteran, with his 74 years of age, had about as much trouble this morning in holding back the hordes of modern improvement, which he considered were ready to do him harm, as he did in holding at bay the warriors of the Gray in the sixties. And he showed pretty much the same spirit, too, this morning as he did on the southern battlefields years ago.

When County Surveyor Rogers and Officer Truitt, accompanied by others from this city, motored to the scene of the Wellmer road, south of Jonesville, they found Spray, clothed with his straw hat and jeans pants, holding back a force of at least a dozen workmen for the Louisville Telegraph Company, who had come to reset some telegraph poles along the proposed new road in order to make the roadway wider. And the roadway building force of Ishmael Wagner, contractor for the road had ceased operations in the disputed territory and were working on the most distant end.

Farmer Spray was objecting to some directions the new road was taking and wanted to shoot it over into the position where he thought it ought to be. To this end he had repeatedly pulled up the stakes County Surveyor Rogers had driven into the ground. Knowing of Spray's objection to the progress of the highway the commissioners had informed Surveyor Rogers that he had better take an officer with him, hence he was accompanied by Officer Truitt. As soon as Surveyor Rogers began resetting the stakes this morning Farmer Spray began kicking them out again and persisted in forcing his viewpoint until he was finally placed under arrest by Officer Truitt and was brought to this city. Sheriff Shaw, having other business on hand, had requested Officer Truitt to accompany Surveyor Rogers.

After all, the trouble was chiefly due to a misunderstanding. Spray lives in Jackson county a few rods south of the line. The road is in this county, but Spray owns the land on both sides of it. At the south extremity of the proposed road a bend is made to the west in order to avoid a swamp and when this curve is made the line projects in such a direction that if it was extended on south into Jackson county it would penetrate his house and barn. He cannot understand that the Bartholomew county road goes to the Jackson county line and stops there. Surveyor Rogers says the difficulty is all a delusion with Spray and that there is no danger in the world that the road, extended, will interfere with his buildings. Another matter that Spray objects to is the passage around the swamp. He wants the road to pass on the east side of the swamp instead of the west side. It is said, however, that the old road, which is really a state road, already passes on the west side of the swamp and that the county could, by law, take a route 60 feet wide, whereas at present a width of only 35 feet is asked.

Spray was brought to this city at noon today and was taken to the office of Justice E. H. Kinney, where the matter was explained to the court. Although Spray was under arrest no affidavit was filed against him, the parties concerned wishing to spare him the expense if an understanding could be reached. Justice Kinney thought that County Attorney Custer should be called but after a time when he did arrive and become familiar with the case, he thought that Mr. Spray should have an attorney to advise him as to his rights.

Spray said he wished a German attorney, and Justice Kinney went in search of Attorney C. J. Kollmeyer, who came shortly afterwards.

"What charge are you holding this man on?" asked Mr. Kollmeyer when he arrived. When told that no charge had been filed, Attorney Kollmeyer suggested that they let the man go home, then. "You can't hold a man without a charge," he said. The points of contention were explained somewhat to Mr. Kollmeyer, after which he took his new fond client to his office with the statement that he would talk it over with him.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN AGAINST TRESPASSERS

Baltimore and Ohio Endeavors to Break up Practice of Using Railroad as Public Highway.

The activity of the local officers of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad is evidence by the fact that the Company is waging a vigorous warfare against trespassing on its property. Arrests are frequently made, and as the free traveling public begins to find that out, there will be less violation of the law in this respect.

The Company is not only interested in keeping from its trains persons who have no right to be there, but it is also anxious that persons should not use the roadway as a highway. They do not like to arrest persons who are unconsciously violating the law, but if this is necessary it will be done.

America appears to be behind some other parts of the world in the matter of trespassing on railroad property for the reason that in the United States laws against trespassing are not as rigidly enforced as they are in some other countries. In the United Kingdom persons other than passengers or employees found on railroad property are fined $10.00 for each offense. The result of this is that while in the United States in the last decade 50,025 persons were killed and 53,427 injured on the railroads, in the United Kingdom during the same period the number killed was only 4,434, while only 1,315 were injured.

In Canada, where the laws make train riding without paying fare a crime punishable by a fine of $50.00 and two months imprisonment, there are very few tramps.

Railroads are doing everything possible to assist people to live, but some persons would rather defy the laws of death and walk on a strip of ground four feet eight inches wide, with the result that about 5,000 are killed each year.

True Secret of Keeping Youthful Looking

(The Beauty Seeker.)

"The real secret of keeping young-looking and beautiful," says a well-known hygienist, "is to keep the liver and bowels normally active. Without these requisites, poisonous waste products remain in the system, polluting the blood and lodging in various organs, tissues, joints. One becomes flabby, obese, nervous, mentally sluggish, dull-eyed, wrinkled and sallow of face. But to get liver and bowels working as they ought, without producing evil after-effects, has been the problem. Fortunately, there is a prescription of unquestioned merit, which may now be had in convenient tablet form. Its value is due largely to an ingredient derived from the humble May apple, or its root, which has been called 'vegetable calomel' because of its effectiveness—though of course it is not to be classed with the real calomel of mercurial origin. There is no habit-forming constituent in 'santanel' tablets—that's the name—and their use is not followed by weakness or exhaustion. On the contrary, these harmless vegetable tablets tend to impart tone and elasticity to the relaxed intestinal wall. Santanel tablets, which may be procured from any druggist—a dime's worth will do—will prove a revelation to any constipated, liver-troubled person."

Chief Cause of Pimples, Blisters, Sallow Skin

(Messenger of Health.)

Unightly eruptions, pimples, boils, blotches, sallow or muddy skin, usually are due to a sluggish liver, a constipated bowel—and a polluted blood stream as a consequence. How foolish in such cases to resort to outward applications, which can never have natural, permanent results. If more people only knew it, there is a very simple remedy, to be found in any drug store, which is as effective as it is harmless and quick acting. It is an old formula, long recognized by the medical profession, which has been put in tablet form, and at such small cost no one need now be deprived of its wonderful benefits.

"Santanel tablets"—that's the name—are entirely vegetable and there's no habit-forming ingredient. You need only get about a dime's worth, and swallow one at bedtime to realize there's nothing else quite so good for the purpose. The action in the morning is so easy, so soothing, and instead of a weakening after-effect, you feel truly refreshed and invigorated. Santanel tablets are not only the finest remedy known for constipation and torpid liver, but offer the sanest, most sensible treatment for complexion difficulties of the character mentioned.

Great Demand for New Constipation Remedy

They say that the advent of the "santanel tablet" as a vegetable substitute for calomel has resulted in an extraordinary demand for this remarkable product. It seems to have made a hit particularly with those afflicted with chronic constipation, who were quick to recognize its advantages over calomel and the usual laxatives.

Santanel tablets, aside from their efficacy, doubtless owe their success largely to a tendency to aid in bringing about natural functioning—instead of encouraging the "cathartic habit." Also, instead of injuring the membranous lining of the organs involved, they exert a healing influence. Instead of weakening, they add tone to the intestinal wall. And they work so easily and gently, they are of course preferred on this account to the violently acting purgatives. Their inexpensiveness is another reason for the popularity of santanel tablets. One need procure only a dime's worth and take one tablet upon retiring, to be convinced that the ideal remedy for constipation, torpid liver, and their many evil consequences, has finally been found.—Druggists Review.

THREE OF THE PHILLES ARE HAVING GOOD HEARTY LAUGH

Demaree, Stock and Whitted Objected to Their Sale Last Year, But May "Get Even."

By United Press.
Philadelphia, Sept. 24.—If Pat Moran's Phillies win the National League pennant this year, as it appears they will, three members of the team are going to laugh themselves sick.

They are Al Demaree, the well known cartoonist; Milton Stock, and George Whitted. McGraw considered the latter pair driftwood, so he cut them loose last season while the Giants were leading the league with every prospect of finishing first. Stock and Demaree were pretty peevish, as they figured they were being cut out of a world's series melon. When the Giants didn't win the pennant they snickered audibly. And now that appears McGraw traded them to a probable winner they're guffawing outright.

Whitted's case is almost the same. George was sore when Stallings sold him last winter to the Phils in the Magee deal, for the Braves looked sure to repeat. Now that the Phils look like they'll figure in the October pie cutting, George has joined the chortling chorus.

Forgan, Chicago Banker, May Retire From Participation In Deal.

Washington, Sept. 23.—James B. Forgan, Chicago banker, who was reported to have withdrawn from the negotiations with the Anglo-French financial commission because he felt the Morgan group were not giving him a sufficient part in the proposed loan, spent the day in Washington.

Upon leaving for Chicago, Mr. Forgan declined to throw any light on his attitude toward the New York financial group, which is directing the negotiations for the loan. To all inquiries he had purely noncommittal replies.

When told that reports from New York indicated that the Morgan group was inclined to make some proposal to him with a view to satisfying him in the matter, he manifested much interest and said he had heard nothing about it. He ventured the opinion that his money looked as good to the New York group as that of any one else, and that they probably would need all they could get.

ANNUAL G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT WILL NOT BE TENTED AFFAIR

Washington Citizens' Committee Provides Adequate Building For Meeting.

By United Press.

Washington, D. C., September 24.—Final arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the Grand Army veterans at their 49th Annual Encampment during the week of September 27th have now been completed. To correct any impression which might be gained by the Association of ideas, it should be stated that the Encampment is not to be a tented affair. The reunion will not be held under canvas as has been the case with these affairs in many cities. Instead, the Washington Citizens' Committee has provided, for the use of the veterans, a building adequately adapted for the purposes of the Encampment and having, with the exception of the Capitol itself, the largest ground floor space of any structure in the city. This building is the one in which the last Census was compiled and stands on First street, adjoining the Capitol Plaza. The main floor is divided into two mammoth auditoriums in one of which the big reception on Tuesday night and the regular business session of the Encampment will be held. The other has been set aside for camp fires and the dog-watch of the naval veterans. On the floor above, there is a row of twenty or more rooms wherein the various corps and departments will have their individual headquarters throughout the reunion. Rooms have also been assigned to be used as headquarters by the military and semi-military organizations allied with the Grand Army, so that all of the proceedings held in connection with the Encampment will be under one roof.

A feature of the arrangements never heretofore provided will be a branch Post Office established in the Encampment Building to which will be assigned by the Postmaster of Washington, a force of clerks who will handle all incoming and outgoing mail for the veterans and all correspondence intended for the visitors should be addressed to the Encampment Headquarters. Rest room, restaurant, hospital and other appointments and equipments necessary for the comfort and convenience of the old soldiers have been installed in the building.

The interior of the structure has been made to prevent a most attractive appearance by a force of decorators which the Washington Committee has brought from New York to give an artistic touch to the Encampment.

At this time, the Weather Bureau officials, judging the future by the past have given it as their opinion that ideal climatic conditions will prevail in Washington during Encampment Week, and in view of all the preparations and arrangements which have been made, this is all that is needed to make the forthcoming Encampment, the most memorable one in the history of the Grand Army.

HOT ROLLS TODAY

Everyone likes hot rolls and they are a most welcome part of the meal, whether it be breakfast, a dainty luncheon, an elaborate dinner or a simple supper. Many a meal owes its complete success to the added touch of delicious hot rolls.

Try some of these recipes:

Light Pocket Rolls

Scald one tablespoon of flour with one pint of sweet milk. Add one-third cup of sugar, one heaping tablespoon of lard and one-half teaspoon of salt. When cool add one cake of compressed yeast. Stir in flour until there is a soft dough. Knead well. Let rise, work out, butter, cut and fold over. Let rise again and bake in a moderate oven.

Parker House Rolls

Two quarts flour, 1 pint cold boiled milk, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 yeast cake. About the size of an egg of lard. Make a hole in the center of the flour and sift into this the sugar and a pinch of salt. Add the milk and the lard and yeast which has been dissolved in warm water. Let rise and then cut into rolls and rise again before baking.

Breakfast Rolls

One and one-half pints flour, 1 teaspoonful butter, 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1/2 pint of milk, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1/2 pint white corn meal. Sift the dry ingredients together. Rub in the cold butter; add the milk. Mix smoothly into a firm dough. Place the dough on a board covered with flour. Turn it once or twice to make it perfectly smooth; then cut it into pieces about the size of an egg. Cut these in halves and roll them with the hand to about a finger's length. Place on a greased baking tin, being careful that they do not touch.

Bathe them over with a little milk and bake in a hot oven for 7 or 8 minutes.

French Rolls

One quart flour, 2 tablespoonfuls baking powder, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 tablespoonful butter, about 1 pint of milk. Sift the flour, salt and the baking powder together thoroughly. Rub in the butter cold. Add the milk and mix into a rather stiff dough. Knead it immediately and vigorously upon a flour board to make it smooth. Cut into pieces size of an egg. Cut these again in half. Form with the hands into thick rolls sharply tapering at each end. Put two of these rolls together side by side; press the ends together a little. Lay them on a greased baking tin; brush them over with milk. Bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes.

PESKY BED BUGS

A MILLION BED BUGS. Just think, a 25c package of the new golden chemical, P. D. Q. (Pesky Devil's Quietness), is enough to make a quart and enough to kill a million bed bugs, no matter how large they may be, where they came from, their age, color or sex, and at the same time leaves a coating on their eggs and prevents hatching.

CUT THIS OUT. This new chemical can be had at any first-class drug store. A 25c package makes a quart of P. D. Q., and will go farther than a barrel of old-fashioned bug killer. Don't let anybody impose upon your intelligence by offering you something else. Insist on what you ask for and you will have what doctors prescribe.

KILLS FLEAS ON DOGS. It's fun to see the fleas drop off your pet dog.

KILLS CHICKEN LICE. No use for your chickens to have lice. A 25c package mixed makes a gallon of chicken lice killer.

Your druggist has it, or can get it for you. Owl Chemical Co., Terre Haute, Ind.

FRYE NOTE IS PLEASING TO U. S.

American Vessels Not to Be Destroyed by Teutons.

MAY VISIT AND SEARCH SHIPS

Proposals to Fix Indemnity by Arbitration and to Submit Treaty of 1928 to The Hague to Interpret Meaning Is Assuring.

Washington, Sept. 24.—In a note on the case of the ship William P. Frye, Germany has given the United States formal assurance that American vessels carrying conditional contraband will under no circumstances be destroyed, even though deemed lawful prizes.

The right to destroy American merchantmen if carrying absolute contraband is reserved, but the promise is given that this will be done only in case of extreme necessity, as provided by the declaration of London.

Just what the practical operation of the new assurances will be officials were keenly interested to learn, for under the lists of contraband proclaimed in Germany in retaliation for acts of Great Britain, nearly everything previously known as conditional contraband has now been made absolute. It is not known as yet what attitude the United States will take in its next note, but it is understood that it may reiterate its insistence that the treaty of 1928 and not existing international law makes American vessels immune from destruction irrespective of their cargoes.

These assurances, together with the acceptance by Germany of the two proposals of the United States—the one to name a joint commission of experts to fix the indemnity for the loss of the Frye and the other to submit to The Hague the dispute which the case produced over the meaning of the treaty of 1928—produced a favorable effect in official quarters.

Germany, however, is anxious to submit to arbitration what the meaning of the treaty is on this point, and it is possible that if no further cases of damage occur during the pendency of the arbitration proceedings, the American government will be disposed to await the decision of the arbitral tribunal.

One thing which attracted attention in connection with the German note was the evident necessity of submarine commanders, under their new orders, to exercise the right of visit and search with respect to all American vessels, to determine the nature of their cargoes.

The fact that Germany referred to its desire to demonstrate "its conciliatory attitude" toward the United States was regarded by many officials as evidence that the Berlin foreign office was disposed to avail itself of every opportunity to remove causes that have led to the strained relations between the two governments.

The note practically insures American vessels against attack without warning, and even in the event that they are carrying absolute contraband, passengers and crew are bound, according to the declaration of London, to be removed before there is any destruction, which also can occur in the event of extreme necessity.

DUMBA MUST AWAIT REPLY

Notified by State Department Nothing Can Be Done For Him Now.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Ambassador Dumba was notified by the state department that inasmuch as the matter of his departure is now pending between the governments of the United States and Austria-Hungary, the department would take no steps in regard to his notification that he desires to go home on leave next week, and his request that a safe conduct be secured for him.

As the Vienna government has not yet been heard from in reply to the American note requesting the recall of Ambassador Dumba, the ambassador's plan to sail on Sept. 28 is likely to fail.

LONDON NOW MUNITION AREA

New Regulations Prohibit "Treating" In Public Houses or Clubs.

London, Sept. 24.—As foreshadowed in a cable on Sept. 18, greater London is to be scheduled as a munition area. The Central control board within the next fortnight will issue regulations prohibiting "treating" of any kind at public houses or clubs. The sale of whiskey, brandy and rum, unless reduced to the number of degrees under proof which falls between 23 and 25, will be illegal.

The Telegraph says with reference to the omission of a fresh taxation of liquor that the cabinet will deal comprehensively with the whole drink question later in the season.

German Loan Not So Successful.

Amsterdam (via London), Sept. 24.—Dispatches from Berlin indicate that the third German war loan is not meeting with the success that marked the two previous war credits. It is feared in Germany that the loan will be only just covered in cash. German financial circles appear to be pessimistic with regard to future loans.

A Word From Reynolds

To Our Friends and Customers:—

At the beginning of the fall season we wish to again call your attention to a few facts in connection with our cash system of doing business, and to emphasize a few points which we believe you will readily see are to your advantage.

FIRST: Cash Selling. Treating everyone alike, carrying no dead accounts, and thus being able to sell on a much closer margin of profit.

SECOND: Quantity Buying. Remember we buy for three large stores. We know the markets and we get practically wholesaler's prices on our goods. This means we can sell cheaper.

THIRD: Highest Prices for Produce. Our large city trade demands a large quantity of high grade produce. We are always glad to pay the highest prices for butter, eggs, vegetables, fruits and anything else you have to sell.

FOURTH: Satisfaction Guaranteed. We are here to please you. Our success depends upon our ability to do so. Our goods are right, our prices are right and our aim is to always give you complete satisfaction in every respect.

If these advantages appeal to you, we will appreciate your patronage at all times and will do our utmost to make it worth while and pleasant for you to come here.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1915.

FIRE PREVENTION DAY.

By a proclamation of Governor Ralston Friday, October 8, will be observed throughout Indiana as Fire Prevention Day. The name indicates the purpose of the day. The campaign against fires is in charge of the state fire marshal and is being conducted along demonstrative and educational lines.

The public schools have been asked to aid in this campaign and the teachers will explain to the pupils how many fires could have been avoided. Statistics that are highly interesting have been compiled by the state fire marshal's office and show conclusively that a large percentage of the fire loss can be avoided. Most fires result from carelessness. With the proper safeguards and precautions this enormous waste could be saved.

The fire marshal's office suggests that a clean-up campaign be conducted on Fire Prevention Day. Piles of inflammable debris are breeding places for fires. A stray match thrown into the material might become ignited and the flames spread to adjoining buildings before they could be extinguished. Another source of fire are overheated stoves and the fire marshal asks that they be surrounded by metal when they are close to the wall. Winter is approaching and heretofore it has been the season of fires. A little precaution now might prevent a disastrous loss later.

The demand for better highways is becoming more insistent throughout the state. Travelers are demanding good roads in the spring of the year as well as at other seasons and the highways can be kept in good repair at all time by proper attention. The farmers of Indiana were among the first to take up the better roads question in Indiana and have consistently urged the improvement of all main thoroughfares.

Uz McMurtrie, of Grant county, has formally entered the race for the nomination of state treasurer on the Republican ticket. He is serving as treasurer of Grant county and since his graduation from Indiana University in 1908, has made a special study of subject of taxation.

GENERAL MOBILIZATION OF GREEK LAND FORCES

Government Expected to Take Over Railroads to Facilitate Troop Movements.

By United Press. Athens, Sept. 24.—King Constantine today signed a decree ordering general mobilization of the Greek land forces. The Greek parliament has been summoned to meet next Wednesday to vote military measures.

An official note explaining the reason for the order said mobilization was Greece's only answer to the Bulgarian attitude. It was added mobilization was ordered for defensive purposes.

A great crowd cheered Premier Venizelos widely when he left the foreign office with the decree to obtain the King's signature. The government is expected to take over control of the railroads at once to facilitate mobilization.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS.

The B. & O. S-W. employees were made happy today by the arrival of the pay checks. The Pennsylvania pay car was in the city yesterday distributing cash to its employees.

Jacob Steinberger was arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of provoke sworn out by Mrs. Laura Engelking, a neighbor, who complained that Steinberger had been using abusive language towards her. When officers went to make the arrest they found Steinberger in bed sick, and on his plea that he was unable to go to the police station, he was instructed to report as soon as he recovered.

COMPLETE CHANGE MAY BE OUTCOME (Continued from first page)

ever, as the commissioner's office is provided by law and the change would have to come at the beginning of a new administration. However, the suggestion shows to what an extent the question is being studied.

As to the present wrangle, there is little possibility of an early settlement unless unforeseen circumstances arise. Mayor Ross is insistent that the residents of the improved streets shall pay for a part of the sweeping and flushing and the majority of the council is as radically opposed to the plan. The bone of contention seems to be whether the property owners shall pay for the work next year. The appropriation of $700 which was offered by the mayor for the balance of this year, would be sufficient now to sweep the streets until cold weather arrives, but the councilmen know that the question is to come up for the next year's appropriation, and want to settle it now for good. It is said that the $700 appropriation offered for the balance of this year would be sufficient to carry on the work as the current bills have been made.

The mayor proposes that the merchants shall pay for sweeping what they paid for sprinkling before the flusher was purchased. This would net the city about $550, he thinks. He would also have the property owners pay one cent a foot per day for a fifty-foot lot for this service which would bring in a revenue of about $1,850. The city would then have about $1,000 to pay on the work. The majority of the council objects to the plan on the ground that the property owners are getting only that to which they are entitled and that the entire cost should fall on the city.

TREE VALUED AT $30,000.

Alligator Pear Variety Insured For Record Amount in London.

An alligator pear tree has been insured by Lloyds for $30,000. This makes an American tree, situated in Los Angeles county, Cal., the most valuable tree in the world, even outstripping the centuries old date palms of Arabia. Through the enterprise of Lloyd's of London this tree is insured against damage by wind or rain.

This avocado tree grows on a fruit ranch in Whittier, Cal. Last year it produced 3,000 pears, which brought the owner an average of 50 cents each. Besides the pears, which are used extensively for salads, the owner received $1,500 for the bud wood. The total amount brought by the tree last year was $3,000, which is equivalent to the interest (at 5 per cent) on a $60,000 investment.

Not only is the tree valuable in its production of fruit and bud wood, but valuable byproducts can be taken from the fruit, allowing no waste in the event of overripeness or spoiling. The seed is used for the making of black dye, and any fruit unfit for market purposes can be squeezed and the oil expressed. It is used for the finer grades of soap and in rare perfumed oils for lighting.

NO ASSIGNMENT IS MADE FOR BROWNSTOWN CHURCH

Fall Session of New Albany Presbytery Closes—C. J. Armentrout Moderator.

New Albany, Ind., September 24.—The fall session of the New Albany presbytery adjourned yesterday at Henryville. The Rev. C. J. Armentrout, of this city, was elected vice-moderator. The relations between the Rev. Charles I. Truby and the First Presbyterian church at Jeffersonville were formally severed, the minister going to Union seminary in New York city. Optimistic reports of progress throughout the presbytery were made by the pastors. All pulpits are filled with the exception of those at Brownstown and Paoli. The next session of the presbytery will be held at the Second Presbyterian church in this city.

May Amputate Arm.

Henry Blankenship, who was injured at the Shale Hill cement mill several days ago by a large stone falling on his arm, continues in a serious condition and it is feared that his arm will have to be amputated. He will likely be removed to the local hospital tonight or tomorrow. Blood poison has set in and the physicians believe that by amputating his arm he has a chance of recovering.

An all day fair and bazaar will be held at Fox's Grove Saturday, September 25 under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Ackert's Chapel.

Yeggmen Move Safe.

Princeton, Ind., Sept. 24.—Yeggmen at an early hour moved the safe of the Princeton steam laundry from the front office through several rooms to the washroom, the floor of which is concrete where they blew it and got $55. The safe was moved about 100 feet.

The members of the Senior and Sophomore classes of the Shields high school will enjoy a marshmallow roast at Fox's Grove, near Redington tonight. They will leave on a late afternoon car. The Misses Grace Doane and Myra Laupus, members of the high school faculty, will be the chaperons.

John Siefker has started his new sorghum mill at his home near Hangman's Crossing and is turning out an excellent grade of molasses. dlwl

Little Story of Daily Life.

Two men were driving into the city from the West, and, passing the tanks of the Seymour Oil Co., below Central avenue, one of them, whose education in abbreviations had evidently been abbreviated itself, called attention to the words, "Not Inc.," painted on the tanks beneath the firm name. "What does that stand for?" he asked his companion. "Why, that means 'not incorporated,' of course," was the reply. "Sure, I should have known that. I know the corporation line is Central avenue."

EDISON DAY WINDOW DISPLAY ATTRACTS MPCH ATTENTION

Artistic Window Arrangement Calls Attention to Celebration to Come Next Month.

In preparation for the Edison Day contest with which it is proposed to celebrate the thirty-sixth anniversary of the invention of the incandescent light by Thomas A. Edison, the Interstate Public Service Company has had a most attractive Edison window display arranged, and it has attracted the attention of large numbers of passers-by today.

The window is trimmed with an arbor of fall leaves and flowers, in the center of which is a large portrait of the great inventor. A replica of the original lamp, upon which the Wizard of Menlo Park worked, is shown, along with the latest designs of the incandescent bulbs. A miniature house lighted with Mazda lights, is situated in the center, on a carpet of moss, giving a most beautiful and pleasing effect. The window was designed and trimmed by H. L. Bridges, of the Thomas Clothing Company, whose work in this line has won him much favorable comment and prize awards at meetings of the National Window Trimmers' Association.

The Interstate people are offering several handsome prizes to Seymour boys and girls in helping them to acquaint the public with the merits of the Mazda lamps, and Miss Julia Kerkhoff, the local manager of the company, will be pleased to explain the proposition to all who will call at the office.

The three go hand in hand, and any time the first two are combined, carefully and systematically, the third is sure to result.

Advertising is the link that connects the buyer and seller—making one understand the value of the goods, and giving the other the opportunity of reaching prospective purchasers.

Prosperity is always possible to the persistent promoter of publicity.

Republican advertising pays because it reaches three out of every four homes in Seymour, and 2,000 in Jackson and surrounding counties.

NOT TO OPPOSE UNION LABOR

John D. Jr., Will Make No
Discrimination.

COMMITTEES OF GRIEVANCE

Declares New System Adopted by Colorado Fuel and Iron Company of Meeting Complaints Is Only In Its Infancy.

Denver, Sept. 24.—The plan by which he hopes permanently to end Colorado's industrial warfare, has been disclosed by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

At Rouse he talked with the largest crowd of miners he has met so far on this trip, and at his request the newspaper men were present to listen to the statements of the workmen.

This plan is to build up an intimate relationship between the humblest workman in the mines and the officials of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, including himself.

Both union and nonunion employes were present. Mr. Rockefeller said to them:

"It is my firm resolve, gentlemen, not to discriminate in any way between union and nonunion men. The system this company adopted last January to give the miners their representatives is only in its infancy. We are trying to arrange things so that any man can get some action on any grievance he may have."

"You know," said Mike Ritz, "at most of the other mines men are working from two and one-half to four days each week."

"You will understand," replied Mr.
Rockefeller, "why that is. You know that the market for our coal has been badly shot to pieces since the strike.
We are giving you all the work here
we can find."

Mackenzie King, social welfare expert of the Rockefeller foundation, who is accompanying Mr. Rockefeller,
said:

"There is to be no recognition of the United Mine Workers as a result of Mr. Rockefeller's visit to Colorado.
Our new system of welfare work under which employes are allowed to name grievance committees to protest to mine superintendents over the conditions they don't like, is the Colorado Fuel and Iron company's answer to demands of the union recognition."

Mr. King did not quote Rockefeller, but every one in the party was confident he talked with Rockefeller's consent.

It was at Horley that the son of the richest man in the world sat on an empty soap box in the public bath house and talked with a score of negro and Mexican miners while they cavorted under the showers a la September morn. One intensely ebony bather, becoming sociable, remarked:
"Boss Rockefeller, you-all better come on in an' try this, its sure fine, suh, on a hot day."

"No, thank you, B.H.," replied John D. Rockefeller, Jr., "that shower does look fine, but I have only a few minutes to stay in the camp."

MAYOR GOSSOM WILL FIGHT

Intimates Will Be Ready For Impeachment Trial.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 24.—Mayor James M. Gossom reiterated his announcement that he would fight the case started against him by the city council when a bill of impeachment, containing thirty-two charges, was adopted at a special meeting.

The action of the council was a matter of general discussion. Many of the counts in the bill of indictment are held to be irrelevant since they have no bearing on charges on which a public official may be impeached.

Mayor Gossom was about his office during the day, attending to his official duties. Part of the time he was in conference with his attorneys and it was intimated that he would be ready for the hearing on Sept. 28, the date fixed by the council.

The council has power to impeach
the mayor, but the final decision rests in an appeal to the circuit court in case the vote of the council, after the hearing, is against the mayor. The mayor holds office until the impeachment is confirmed by the circuit court in event of appeal.

TELLS OF SUBWAY EXPLOSION

Describes Scene in Subway Disaster
Which Paralyzed His Senses.

New York, Sept. 24.—The work of clearing up the section of the new Seventh avenue subway, in which a cave-in caused the death of seven persons and the injury of nearly 100 others, is proceeding rapidly. No additional bodies were found. Reports from the hospitals were that most of the injured would recover. Only a few cases, it was said, are still in a serious state.

August Mezzanotte, the blaster who directed the explosions that are believed to have caused the collapse of the wooden pavement, appeared at the district attorney's office, accompanied by counsel. Mezzanotte described how three positions were prepared for dynamite blasting. The first blast, set off at 7:50 a. m., he said, was a success.

Before setting off the second blast,
Mezzanotte said, he took the usual precaution, including the sending out of flagmen to stop traffic, and when the blast was done he gave the signal that the blast be fired.

"In three or four seconds," Mezza-notte stated, "the deck (wooden pavement) began to go. It started where the blast went off and rolled away like a wave. The street then sank in."

Pin Stops Singing.

four, did not worry her until she started singing in a church choir at a concert. An operation will be necessary.

CHAPTER XV.

The Rector Knows.

Rev. Smith Boyd came down to breakfast with a more or less hollow look in his face, and his mother, inspecting him keenly, poured his coffee immediately. There was the trace of a twinkle in her eyes, which were nevertheless extremely solicitous.

"How is your head?" she inquired.

Rev. Smith Boyd dutifully withdrew his mind from elsewhere, to consider that proposition justly. "All right, thank you," he decided, and he fell into exactly such a state of melancholy, trifling with his grapefruit, as Mrs. Boyd wished to test. She focused her keen eyes on him microscopically.

"Miss Sargent is coming back to-night; on the six-ten train."

There was a clatter in Rev. Smith Boyd's service plate. He had been awkward with his spoon, and dropped it.

"That is delightful news," he returned with frank enthusiasm which was depressing to his mother.

Mrs. Boyd had nothing more to say. She watched her son Tod start vigorously at his grapefruit, with a vivacity which seemed to indicate that he might finish with the rind. He drew his eggs energetically toward him, buttered a slice of toast, and finished his breakfast. Suddenly he looked at his watch.

"I have an extremely busy day before me," he told her briskly, and feeling to see if he had supplied himself with handkerchiefs, he kissed his mother, and was gone without another word about Gail! She could have shaken him in her disappointment. What was the matter with Tod?

Rev. Smith Boyd sang as he went out of the door, not a tune or any set musical form, but a mere unconscious testing of his voice. It was quite unusual for him to sing on the way to Vedder court, for he devoted his time this portion of his duties because he was a Christian. He had sympathy, more than enough, and he both understood and pitied the people of Vedder court, but, in spite of all his intense interest in the deplorable condition of humanity's weak and helpless, he was compelled to confess to himself that he loathed dirt.

Vedder court was particularly perfect in its specialty this morning. The oily black sediment on its pavements was streaked with iridescence, and grime seemed to be shedding from every point of the drunken old buildings. They even seemed to leer down at Rev. Smith Boyd, as if his being the only clean thing in the street were an impertinence, which they would soon rectify.

A half intoxicated woman, her front teeth missing and her colorless hair straggling, and her cheekbones gleaming with the high red of debauchery, leered up at him as he passed. A curly-headed youngster, who would have been angelically beautiful if he had been washed and his native blood pumped from him, threw mud at Rev. Smith Boyd, out of a mere artistic desire to reduce him to harmony with his surroundings. A mouthing old woman, with hands clawed like a parrot's, begged him for alms, and he was ashamed of himself that he gave it to her with such shrinking. The Master could not have been like this. A burly "panhandler" stopped him with an artificial whine. A cripple, displaying his ugly deformity for the benefit and example of the unborn, took from him a dole and a wince of repulsion.

"The poor ye have always with ye!" For ages that had been the excuse for such offenses as Vedder court. They were here, they must be cared for within their means, and no amount of pauperizing charity could remove them from the scheme of things. In so far, Market Square church felt justified in its landlordship, that it nursed squalor and bred more. Yet, somehow, the rector of that solidly respectable institution was not quite satisfied, and he had added a new expense to the profit and loss account in the ledger of this particular house of God. He had hired a crew of forty muscular men, with horses and carts, and had caused them to be deputized as sanitary police, and had given them authority to enter and clean; which may have accounted for the especially germ-laden feel of the atmosphere this morning. Down in the next block, where the squad was systematically at work, there were the sounds of countless individual battles, and loud mouthings of the fundamental principles of anarchy. A government which would force soap and deodorizers and germicides on presumably free and independent citizens, was a government of tyranny; and it had been a particular wisdom, on the part of the rough-hewn faced man who had hired this crew, to select none but accomplished brick dodgers. In the ten carts which lined the curb on both sides there were piled such a conglomerate mass of nondescript fragments of everything undesirable that the rector felt a trace better, as if he had erased one mark at least of the long black score against himself. Somehow, recently, he had acquired an urgent impulse to clean Vedder court!

He turned in at one of the largest and most uninviting of the rickety stairways. He skipped, with a practiced tread, the broken third step, and made a mental note to once more take up, with the property committee, the battle of minor repairs. He stopped at the third landing, and knocked at a dark door, whereupon a petulant voice told him to come in. The petulant voice came from a woman who sat in a broken rockered chair, with one leg held stiffly in front of her. She was heavy with the fat which rolls and bulges, and an empty beer pail, on which the froth had dried, sat by her side. On the rickety bed lay a man propped on one elbow, who had been unshaven for days, so that his sandy beard made a sort of layer on his square face. The man sat up at once. He was a trifle undersized, but broad-shouldered and short-necked, and had enormous red hands.

"How are you today, Mrs. Rogers?" asked the rector, sitting on a backless and bottomless chair, with his hat on his knees, and holding himself small, with an unconscious instinct to not let anything touch him.

"No better," replied the woman, making her voice weak. "I'll never know a well day again. The good Lord has seen fit to afflict me. I ain't saying anything, but it ain't fair."

Rev. Smith Boyd could not resist a slight contraction of his brows. Mrs. Rogers invariably introduced the Lord into every conversation with the rector, and it was his duty to wrestle with her soul, if she insisted. He was not averse to imparting religious instruction, but, being a practical man, he could not enjoy wasting his breath.

"There are many things we could understand," he granted. "What does the doctor say about your condition?"

"He don't offer no hope," returned the woman, with gratification. "This knee joint will be stiff till the end of my days. If I had anything to blame myself with it would be different, but I ain't. I say my prayers every night, but if I'm too sick, I do it in the morning."

"Can that stuff!" growled the man on the bed. "You been prayin' once a day ever since I got you, and nothin's ever happened."

"I've brought you a job," returned Rev. Smith Boyd promptly. "I have still ten places to fill on the sanitary squad which is cleaning up Vedder court."

The man on the bed sat perfectly still.

"I can't do it," he regretted. "I don't say anything about the pay, but I'm a stationary engineer." He was interested enough in his course of solid reasoning to lay a stubby finger in his soiled palm. "If I take this two weeks' job it'll stop me from lookin' for work, and I might miss a permanent situation."

"Then you won't accept it," and the rector rose, with extremely cold eyes. "I'd like to accommodate you, but I can't afford it," and the man remained perfectly still, an art which he had brought to great perfection. "All we need is the loan of a little money while I'm huntin' work."

"I can't give it to you," announced Rev. Smith Boyd firmly. "I've offered you an opportunity to earn money, and you won't accept it. That ends my responsibility."

"You'd better take it, Frank," advised the woman, losing a little of the weakness of her voice.

"You 'tend to your own business!" advised Mr. Rogers in return. "You're supposed to run the house, and I'm supposed to earn the living! Reverend Boyd, if you'll lend me two dollars till a week from Saturday—"

"I told you no," and the rector started to leave the room.

There was a knock at the door. A thick-armed man with a short, wide face walked in, a pail in one hand and a scrubbing brush in the other. On the back of his head was pushed a bright blue cap, with "Sanitary Police" on it, in tarnished braid. Mr. Rogers stood up.

"What do you want?" he quite naturally inquired.

"Clean up," replied the sanitary policeman, setting down his pail and ducking his head at the rector, then mopping his brow with a bent forefinger, while he picked out a place to begin.

"Nothin' doin'!" announced Mr. Rogers, aflame with the dignity of an outraged householder. "Good-night!" and he advanced a warning step.

The wide-set sanitary policeman paused in his survey long enough to wag a thick forefinger at the outraged householder.

"Don't start anything," he advised. "There's some tough mugs in this block, but you go down to the places I've been, and you'll find that they're all clean."

With these few simple remarks, he turned his back indifferently to Mr. Rogers, and, catching hold of the carpet in the corner with his fingers, he lifted it up by the roots.

"There's no use buckin' the government," Mr. Rogers decided, after a critical study of the sanitary policeman's back, which was extremely impressive. "It's a government of the rich for the rich. Has a poor man got any show? I'm a capable stationary engineer. All I ask is a chance to work—at my trade." This by an afterthought. "If you'll give me two dollars to tide me over—"

Rev. Smith Boyd stepped out of the way of the sanitary policeman, and then stepped out of the door.

"And you call yourself a minister of the Gospel!" Mr. Rogers yelled after him.

That was a sample of the morning's work, and Rev. Smith Boyd felt more and more, as he neared luncheon time, that he merited some consideration, if only for the weight of the cross he bore. There were worse incidents than the abuse of men like Rogers; there were the hideous sick to see, and the genuinely distressed to comfort, and depthless misery to relieve; and any day in Vedder court was a terrific drain, both upon his sympathies and his personal pocket.

He felt that this was an exceptionally long day.

Home in a hurry at twelve-thirty. A scrub, a complete change of everything, and a general feeling that he should have been sterilized and baked as well. Luncheon with the mother who saw what a long day this was, then a far different type of calls; in a sedate black car this time, up along the avenue, and in and out of the clean side streets, where there was little danger of having a tire punctured by a wanton knife, as so often happened in Vedder court.

Away to Vedder court again, dismissing his car at the door of Temple mission, and walking inside, out of range of the leers of those senile old buildings, but not out of the range of the peculiar spirit of Vedder court, which manifested itself most clearly to the olfactory sense.

The organ was playing when he entered, and the benches were half filled by battered old human remnants, who pretended conversion in order to pick up the crumbs which fell from the table of Market Square church. Chiding himself for weariness of the spirit, and comforting himself with the thought that one greater than he had faltered on the way to Golgotha, he sat on the little platform, with a hymn book in his hand, and when the prelude was finished, he devoted his wonderful voice to the blasphemy.

The organist, a volunteer, a little old man who kept a shoemaker's shop around the corner, and who played sincerely in the name of helpfulness, was pure of heart.

The men with the rough-hewn countenance, unfortunately not here today, was also sincere in an entirely unspiritual way; but, with these exceptions, and himself, of course, the rector knew positively that there was not another uncalled creature in the room, not one who could be reached by argument, sympathy or fear! They were past redemption, every last man and woman; and, at the conclusion of the hymn, he rose to cast his pearls before swine, without heart and without interest; for no man is interested in anything which cannot possibly be accomplished.

With a feeling of mockery, yet upheld by the thought that he was holding out the way and the light, not only seven times but seventy times seven times, to whatever shred or crumb of divinity might lie unsuspected in these sterile breasts, he strove earnestly to arouse enthusiasm in himself so that he might stir these dead ghosts, even in some minute and remote degree.

Suddenly a harsh and raucous voice interrupted him. It was the voice of Mr. Rogers, and that gentleman, who had apparently secured somewhere the two dollars to tide him over, was now embarked on the tide. He had taken just enough drinks to make him ugly, if that process were possible, and he had developed a particularly strong resentment of the latest injustice which had been perpetrated on him. That injustice consisted of Rev. Smith Boyd's refusal to lend him money till a week from next Saturday night; and he had come to expose the rector's shallow hypocrisy. This he proceeded to do, in language quite unsuited to the chapel of Temple mission and to the ears of the ladies then present, most of whom grinned.

The proceedings which followed were but brief. Rev. Smith Boyd requested the intruder to stop. The intruder had rights, and he stood on them! Rev. Smith Boyd ordered him to stop; but the intruder had a free and independent spirit, which forbade him to accept orders from any man! Rev. Smith Boyd, in the interests of discipline, without which the dignity and effectiveness of the cause could not be upheld, and pleased that this was so, ordered him out of the room. Mr. Rogers, with a flood of abuse which displayed some versatility, invited Rev. Smith Boyd to put him out; and Rev. Smith Boyd did so. It was not much of a struggle, though Mr. Rogers tore two benches loose on his way, and, at the narrow door through which it is difficult to thrust even a weak man, because there are so many arms and legs attached to the human torso, he was compelled to practically pitch him, headlong, across the sidewalk and over the curb and into the gutter! The victim of injustice arose slowly, and turned to come back, but he paused to take a good look at the stalwart young perpetrator, and remembered that he was thirsty.

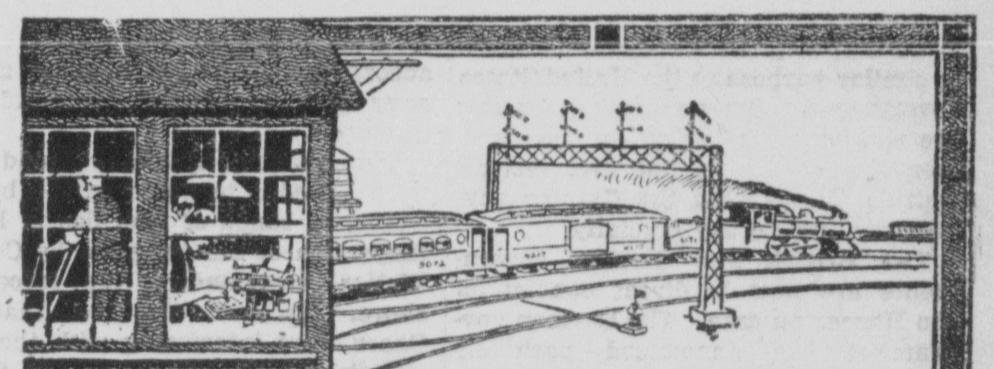

Rev. Smith Boyd found himself standing in the middle of the sidewalk, with fists clenched and his blood surging. The atmosphere before his eyes seemed to be warm, as if it were reddened slightly. He was tingling from head to foot with a passion which he had repressed and throttled and smothered since the days of his boyhood! He had striven, with a strength which was the secret of his compelling voice, to drive out of him all earthly dross, to found himself on the great example which was without the cravings of the body; he had sought to make himself spiritual; but, all at once, this conflict had roused in him a raging something, which swept up from the very soles of his feet to his twirling brain, and called him man!

He reached suddenly for his watch. Six-ten. He could make it! Still impelled by this new creature which had sprung up in him, he started; but at the curb he stopped. He had been in such a whirl of emotion that he had not realized the absence of his hat. He strode into the mission door, and the rays of the declining sun, struggling dimly through the dingy glass, fell on the scattered little assemblage—as if it had been sent to touch them in mercy and compassion—on the weak and the poor and the piteously crippled of soul; and a great wave of shame came to him; shame, and thankfulness, too!

He walked slowly up to the platform, and, turning to that reddened sunlight which bathed his upturned face as if with a benediction, he said, in a voice which, in its new sweetness of vibration, stirred even the murky depths of these, the numb:

"Let us pray."

Catarrh a Blood Disease S.S.S. Drives It From Your System

Because Catarrh affects the nose and throat, causing sores in the nostrils, stoppage of air-passages and gathering in the throat, it has been common practice to treat Catarrh by lotions, washes and sprays applied to these parts. This mode of treatment is entirely wrong. It cannot give permanent relief, and it is liable to irritate and aggravate the trouble. Catarrh cannot be trifled with. If allowed to run on it will disease the bronchial tubes, settle on the lungs, the stomach—indeed it is a very serious disease. Don't treat it locally. The fact that it causes headaches is proof that it is caused by impure and diseased blood. The one treatment that has proved effective in the treatment of Catarrh is S. S. S., it is the greatest blood purifier and blood tonic known. It relieves the cause of Catarrh by the process of renewing the blood, renewing its strength and vigor, giving new life to the red blood corpuscles, and stimulating the flow so that it has the vitality to throw off the poison and germs from the system. It is literally a blood bath. You quickly feel results. Headaches disappear, the gathering in the throat stops, the nostrils heal—before you hardly realize it you are well. S. S. ## WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo.—"I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For two years I could not stand on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. It advertises itself."—Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

STRICT ORDERS FOR GERMAN SUBMARINES

New Rules May Help to Settle Issues Involved.

Washington, Sept. 23.—The state department has been advised by Ambassador Page at London that he is sending by mail additional evidence in the case of the liner Hesperian, the vessel the sinking of which may become a factor in the submarine controversy between the United States and Germany.

According to officials of the state department, the numerous statements appearing in the press from Berlin expressing absolute confidence that the controversy with the United States will be satisfactorily adjusted, and announcing that more strict orders have been given to submarine commanders with regard to attacks on passenger vessels, have not been supplemented by any official communications of similar purpose to the United States government. Consequently, officials are making no comment on the statements from Berlin, but are, instead waiting to see what the German government has to say officially.

The British and German governments are now in direct conflict on the Hesperian case. The German government has announced positively that no German submarine was in the waters the Hesperian was when struck. This statement, it is declared in Berlin, is based on reports from all German submarines on the seas at the time the Hesperian was destroyed.

The British on the other hand, not only assert that a fragment of the torpedo fell on the deck of the vessel, and was preserved, but that other evidence shows that German submarines were in the vicinity at the time.

GREECE IS REPORTED MOBILIZING TROOPS

Bulgaria's Action to Lead to Balkan War.

London, Sept. 23.—With the mobilization of Bulgaria now an assured fact, with repeated reports that Bulgarian troops are being massed on the Serbian frontier and with the railways of the kingdom closed to all but military business, the entrance of Bulgaria into the war as an ally of Germany, Austria and Turkey within a very brief time, seems practically assured.

Austrian and German troops are waiting on the banks of the Danube and Save for the order to begin an invasion of Serbia from that side, and Austro-German artillery continues the preliminary bombardment of Belgrade and the Serbian positions. There seems to be reason to believe that Bulgaria's first task is to co-operate in the attempt to overrun and overpower Serbia, the traditional enemy of Bulgaria, as of Austria.

King Constantine of Greece, conferred with his cabinet and Athens reports that the king signed an order mobilizing the Greek army. A move on the part of Bulgaria against Serbia is expected to bring Greece to the side of the latter immediately. Indications point to another Balkan war involving all the states of the peninsula as inevitable.

FORD PLANS AERO-TORPEDO

Would Be Operated by Wireless and Be Very Destructive.

Washington, Sept. 23.—At the invitation of Secretary of the Navy Daniels, Henry Ford, automobile manufacturer and pacifist, will go down in a submarine at the New York navy yard.

Arrangements for Mr. Ford to inspect a submarine were made following his call on Secretary Daniels here. Mr. Daniels desires to enlist Mr. Ford's services in aiding the navy to solve the problems it is confronted with in developing suitable types of engines for submarines and aeroplanes.

Following his visit at the navy department, Secretary Daniels took Mr. Ford to the White House, where he talked with the president for fifteen minutes.

Another idea he put forth here was that of an aero-torpedo, to be operated in the air by wireless without any pilots or observers. Whole aeras could be depopulated this way, Mr. Ford asserted.

OPEN HAYTIAN RAILROADS

American Forces Open Traffic For Food Supplies.

Washington, Sept. 24.—The American forces, operating in Hayti have undertaken the task of opening all the sections of railroad lines in that country as a means to protecting the food supplies of the principal towns, according to a report received at the navy department from Rear Admiral Caperton.

The opening of the railroad has been opposed to some extent by the Cacos, or bands of guerrillas in Hayti. Inspection of the situation by Colonel Waller, commanding the forces on shore, disclosed the fact that the Cacos were interfering with the food supplies of Cape Haytien and Gonaves. Colonel Walter thereupon sought out the Cacos chiefs and explained to them the intention of the American forces to open up the railroads at any cost.

Three squads of marines and two machine guns and necessary wrecking equipment set out to open the road from Cape Haytien to Grand Rivieres. Little opposition was met with and the country people seemed well pleased at the operation.

URGE EXTRA SENATE SESSION

May Be Called In October to Work on Treaty Measures.

Washington, Sept. 23.—Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate, called at the White House to urge President Wilson to call a special session of the senate in October in order that the debts may be swept clear of executive business before congress convenes in December.

The president told Mr. Stone that he had the matter under consideration, but did not indicate what his decision might be.

It was generally understood, however, that the president would decide within a week or ten days and that his decision would be made known immediately. Officials believe that if a special session is called it will be about Oct. 15. It became known that Senator Kern is communicating with the Democratic members of the senate in order to ascertain their judgment as to the wisdom of convening the senate. Supposedly, the majority leader is making this inquiry at the request of the White House, and the president's decision will not be reached until his party colleagues in the senate have been heard from.

Sunday School Lesson

Lesson XIII. September 26 Third Quarter
For Individual Review of the Quarter

LESSON I.—Absalom's failure, II Sam. xviii, 1-15. Golden Text, Eph. vi, 1, "Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right." Absalom failed in respect for his father or his father's God, and he failed to accomplish what he had his heart set upon for himself. The victory was David's, and he was restored to his throne. See Ps. xxxiii, 10, 11, concerning the counsel of the Lord and that of His enemies.

LESSON II.—Solomon anointed king, I Kings i, 28-40. Golden Text, I Chron. xxviii, 9, "Know thou the God of thy father and serve Him with a perfect heart and with a willing mind." It was the purpose of the Lord that of all the sons of David Solomon should be his successor, and so it came to pass, for "every purpose of the Lord shall be performed" (Jer. ii, 29).

LESSON III.—Solomon chooses wisdom, I Kings iii, 4-15. Golden Text, Prov. ix, 10, "The fear of Jehovah is the beginning of wisdom." Solomon began well, loving the Lord and walking in the statutes of David, his father, and the Lord said to him, "Ask what I shall give thee." Solomon's request pleased the Lord, and He gave him wisdom and also riches and honor. It was an exceeding abundantly like Eph. iii, 20. The Lord Jesus is the wisdom and power of God.

LESSON IV.—Solomon dedicates the temple, I Kings viii, 22-30. Golden Text, Isa. lvi, 7, "My house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples." The tabernacle and temple were both typical of Christ, the True Tabernacle and Temple, and of the church, which is His body, now being builded. Each believer is also a temple and is expected to be wholly dedicated to God that the world may know Him (John xvii, 21, 23).

LESSON V.—The queen of Sheba visits Solomon, I Kings x, 1-13. Golden Text, Prov. viii, 11, "Wisdom is better than rubies." Not only the queen of Sheba, but all the earth, sought to Solomon to hear his wisdom which God had put in his heart, and they all brought gifts of silver, gold, garments, horses, spices, etc., foreshadowing the time when all nations shall bring their wealth to Israel because of the name of the Lord who will then be their King (verses 1, 24, 25; Isa. ix, 3, 5, 11, 21).

LESSON VI.—The kingdom torn asunder, I Kings xii, 6-16. Golden Text, Prov. xvi, 18, "Pride goeth before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall." Because of Solomon's sin in turning from the Lord to idols, although He had appeared to him twice and kindly warned him, He said that He would take the kingdom from him, but would leave him one tribe for David's sake (xi, 9-13).

LESSON VII.—Jeroboam leads Israel into sin, I Kings xii, 25-33. Golden Text, Ex. xx, 4, 5a, "Thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them nor serve them." Jeroboam turned away from God, who gave him the kingdom, and led all Israel into idolatry, so that there was not one king over the ten tribes who was not an idolater.

LESSON VIII.—Asa's good reign, I Chron. xv, 1-15. Golden Text, Jas. iv, 8, "Draw nigh to God, and He will draw nigh to you." In contrast to Jeroboam and the sinful kings of Israel there were at least eight of the kings of Judah who served the Lord and sought to do right in His sight. Asa was one of them, and for thirty-five years he was wonderfully blessed, because he relied on the Lord, but during the last five of his forty years he turned away from God in a measure.

LESSON IX.—God's care of Elijah, I Kings xviii, 1-16. Golden Text, I Pet. v, 7, "Casting all your anxiety upon Him, because He careth for you." A man of God, jealous for the honor of Jehovah is able to cause no rain for over three years and then to bring rain, yet he was a man like others. He was supernaturally cared for during those years and safely hidden, so that he could not be found.

LESSON X.—Elijah and the prophets of Baal, I Kings xviii, 30-39. Golden Text, Prov. xv, 29, "Jehovah is far from the wicked; but He heareth the prayer of the righteous." A great test and a glorious vindication of Jehovah. From morning till evening the wicked cry to their god without a reply; Elijah prayed one brief prayer and the fire came that could burn up even stones.

LESSON XI.—Elijah's flight and return, I Kings xix, 8-18. Golden Text, Ps. xlii, 10, "Be still and know that I am God." The same Elijah as in the last lesson, but a wicked woman has come between him and God and he is seeing and hearing her and therefore afraid and fleeing for his life. When we see self or people or circumstances we are sure to fail. Our only safety is in seeing Jesus only. When we think we are necessary then God will do without us.

LESSON XII.—Defeat through drunkenness, I Kings xx, 10-21. Golden Text, Hosea iv, 11, "Wine and new wine take away the understanding." Thirty-three drunken kings was surely a beastly sight, and it was grand to see them and their hosts overcome by one king, a weak and sinful man, but God helped him for His great name's sake and for Israel's sake to make His name known.

TIGHTENS IRON GRIP ON DWINSK

Germans Take Czar's Advanced Positions.

FRENCH AIR FLEET BUSY

Russian Dispatches Indicate Added Successes of the Czar's Army In Eastern Galicia—German Losses
Continue Heavy.

London, Sept. 24.—Regarding the Russian theater of war, the German war office claims three successes: Von Hindenburg's army penetrated the Russian advanced positions west of Dwinsk. This means a tightening of the Teuton ring around the important fortified city and railroad junction.

Field Marshal von Mackensen has reached the region northeast and east of Logishin. This place is due west of Luninjets, intersection of the Pinsk-Gowel and Sarny-Baranowitscha-Lida railways.

Another of the German field marshal's armies broke the resistance of the Russian forces north of Oshmyana, in the Wilna-Nolodetschno-Lida railway triangle, thus adding to the menace of the Russian Wilna army's escape.

Russian dispatches indicate the czar is still making headway in eastern Galicia.

As the fall of Dwinsk has for several days been conceded, even by Petrograd, as inevitable, the German progress in that region is less significant. The comparative slowness of the actual clenching of the iron fist about the city, illustrates the tenacious Russian resistance and heavy losses attending the encircling movement.

The German gain north of Subodnik brings the Teutons again nearer to the Wilna-Molodetschno railway on which sector the town of Smorgon, once taken by their cavalry, was recaptured by the Russians. Significant is this passage of the German report to the statement that "our troops are following the retreating enemy."

The line of retreat of these Russian forces is the Wilna-Molodetschno railroad.

Evidently still in their hands, this railroad in turn justifies the assumption that a considerable part of the Wilna army the object of Von Hindenburg's trap, may have escaped over this road, and not as had been generally believed, over the southern road.

Thus the idea that the Wilna army, estimated at nearly a half million Russians, the bulk of the czar's forces in the west, has been for several days, "completely cut off from all sides is disposed of."

The French air fleet again co-operated with the artillery in the bombardment of German railway stations and signalling points. A French dirigible was in action in the Vosges, north of Wisenbach, dropping bombs on railway stations, which were a part of the German signalling system, while French aeroplanes compelled several German captive balloons to descend. Other activities of French aviators are noted from Offenbourg, Conflans and Voumiers and at Langenerck and Hiddelkerke in Belgium.

The artillery of both sides continues the activity along much of the line with particularly heavy bombardments in the sectors of Souchez, Neuville and Arras.

Dispatches reaching Paris from Holland say that the German positions in Belgium have been heavily reinforced in the past few weeks.

DENY FRICTION ON LOAN

Bankers Declare Big War Loan Plans
Will Go Through.

New York, Sept. 24.—American bankers and the Anglo-French mission declared emphatically that there has been neither hitch nor friction in the informal negotiations that have been held between them to establish a basis for a foreign loan which is intended to stabilize the exchange between the United States, England and France and other foreign countries.

Instead the matter has been progressing both smoothly and as rapidly as the men who have been engaged could expect.

It was agreed that very little remains to be done now, a few details settled before the matter moves to a more formal stage. No decisive action will be taken, of course, until after N. Bark, the Russian minister of finance, has had his interview with chancellor of the exchequer, Reginald McKenna, in London, but the general opinion appeared to be that Russia will not be a party signatory to the bonds. It is now known as the Anglo-French loan, one man pointed out and very likely that will be its official title in the end. It was admitted that Russia might become a party—it is always a possibility.

Declares Archibald Ambitious.

London, Sept. 24.—The Daily Express asserts editorially that the American war correspondent, James F. J. Archibald was ambitious to add the iron cross to his military medals, and that he acted as Dr. Dumba's messenger on the condition that he was to receive the decoration from the kaiser.

London, Sept. 24.—The latest reports of Emperor William's movements indicated that he was with his troops on the Russian front.

BULGARIA CANCELS MOBILIZATION ORDER

Balkan Riddle Most Puzzling of War.

London, Sept. 24.—The most puzzling problem of the war is the Balkan riddle.

A mysterious message was received in London from Salonika, saying that the Bulgarian mobilization order, which was issued on Wednesday, was cancelled and that the mobilization has been postponed.

The receipt of the message was followed by the severest censorship of all news from the Balkans.

No secret is made of the general belief among careful students of the Balkan situation here that the military movements suspended by Bulgaria were intended chiefly to prove the readiness of the nation to fight to obtain her wishes.

In view of these developments it is almost impossible to draw any inference from the situation beyond the fact that a decision by Bulgaria appears to be imminent. The only facts definitely known here are that the Bulgarian mobilization has been postponed and that Turkey has given Bulgaria the hinterland of the Dedegatch line with Adrianople.

Although the kaiser's advances to the Bulgarian court are well known, the conviction prevails among military experts here that Bulgaria is standing by the declaration of Premier Radoslawoff that his country would enter the war on the side of the entente powers if it received the portion of Macedonia lost to Serbia by the Bucharest treaty after the second Balkan war. Beyond this nothing is known of the demands or ambitions of Bulgaria, although concessions have been offered by both the entente and the central powers.

WILL REFUSE TO PAY TAXES

Kansas City Teachers Must Have Suffrage or Will Balk on Taxes.

Kansas City, Sept. 24.—Women teachers in the schools of Independence, Mo., have announced they would refuse to pay taxes unless they were given the right to vote.

Angered at what she called taxation without representation, Miss Anna Baskin, teacher in the Columbia school, together with other teachers, took the warpath to let men know they could not dominate women in any manner.

"They do not let us vote and we are heads of households, and we don't propose to pay taxes," said Miss Baskin. "When they give us suffrage then we will be glad to bear our share of the expense of the government."

Send Safe to Factory.

Montpelier, Ind., Sept. 24.—The safe of the First National bank of this city, containing $20,000 and valuable papers, has been shipped to a Cincinnati factory, where an effort will be made to open it. Experts summoned here from all parts of the country failed to open the safe. The bank has been transacting business under difficulties for two weeks.

Now sprinkle grated cream cheese over this, add a dash of paprika and one has a very delicious salad.

Mexican Chicken Dish.—Cut up chicken. Stew until more than half cooked. Put rice into twice the amount of cold water and cook in earthen jar until water is gone; then remove cover and put jar back on the back of stove and let remain until rice is rather dry. Remove the rice and mix thoroughly with the disjointed chicken, the peas which have been drained and the peppers which have been cut into dice. Pour over this two cupfuls of liquid in which chicken was stewed. Add salt, pepper and butter unless fowl was very fat. Put in covered baking dish and bake from one to three hours. Serve with sour pickles or vegetable salad.

Boston Baked Beans.—One-half pound salt pork, one quart beans, two tablespoonfuls molasses, one teaspoonful mustard, one teaspoonful sugar, one saltspoonful salt, one saltspoonful pepper.

Let the beans soak overnight in two quarts of cold water. In the morning drain and cover them with warm water and soak two hours longer. Drain again, put in a pot with plenty of water. Score the rind of the pork deeply and add to the beans; then set over the fire and simmer until the beans begin to crack. Drain the water from them, turn half the beans into a bean pot, lay the pork on them, the rind side up, and cover this with the remainder of the beans. Into a pint of boiling water stir the molasses, mustard, sugar, salt and pepper. Pour over the beans, cover the pot and bake in a slow oven for seven or eight hours. Add a little boiling water from time to time if the beans seem dry. The water should come barely to the top of the beans.

POISON PEN MYSTERY CLEARED UP BY GIRL

Confesses to Sending Threatening Letters.

Bloomfield, N. J. Sept. 24.—Confessing to misusing the mails, Loretta Henderson, a stenographer in the Edison plant in Orange, has cleared up the "poison pen" mystery that for the past six months, has caused a turmoil of excitement in the Matamoras district of Bloomfield, particularly in the Matamoras M. E. church, of which she is the organist. The epistles, numbering close on to the hundred mark, are all in the possession of the postal authorities.

Since the confession of Miss Henderson she has been very ill and, in fact, is now under the care of a physician.

It was through the vigil of Inspector Opydyke of Elizabeth, and Postmaster Higgins, that the poison pen author finally confessed to Mr. Opydyke and he paroled the young woman in the custody of her parents, until the postoffice department is ready for her appearance in the federal courts.

Miss Henderson, it is said, not only sent the epistles to her intended husband, Raymond Eller, in which she urged him not to marry "that girl," but also to his parents, members of the Matamoras church and also to the Rev. B. M. McCoy, the pastor of the church. She even made threats against herself in the letters if she did not stop going with Mr. Eller.

In turning to the side of the road to allow a buggy to pass, the automobile ran into the ditch.

A well known advertising man said recently:—
"The world is full of people who want to render service and cannot find anyone to serve."
"On the other hand, there are multitudes of people who cannot find anyone to 'serve' them."
"The newspapers is the only medium for getting together the people who wish to serve and those who wish the service."
That, in a few words, sums up the aim and scope of advertising in a live newspaper like The Republican.

How the World Empties and Fills.
John M. Siddall, writing in the October Americana Magazine under the title "How the World Empties and Fills," says:

"Twenty-one years ago Coxey's Army marched to Washington. The newspapers were full of it. Mention Coxey to anybody over thirty-five years old and see the understanding in his face. Know Coxey and his blooming army? Well, I should say so! Now try Coxey on men and women in the twenties. Just try it. It will open your eyes. Coxey? Who the blazes is Coxey? Looks of confusion and ignorance.

"Coxey, you see, quit advertising. That is, the Coxey publicity ceased. And the world has filled up with people who never heard of him. Millions and millions of them.

"That is the way with some advertisers. They speak up a few times and then go back to their factories. There by George, we've told 'em! And then old Father Time begins to work. And the undertaker. And the parson armed with a marriage license. And the baby carriage. And rheumatism. And, first you know, the world is peopled with new bosses, new buyers and new housekeepers who never heard of you. Incredible! What!—never heard of me? No, never heard of you! Sorry to disappoint you.

"Man is provided with a great ego. If he didn't have it he couldn't stand it to live. Without an ego he would probably take one look at the moon and go jump in the lake. Now the best thing that an ego does is to give you a fine feeling of permanence. Of course you aren't permanent, and your better sense tells you so. But Mr. Ego keeps trying to make you think you are. What he aims to do is to make you feel comfortable. Nice thing to have around—an ego. You need him in your business. But don't believe everything he tells you. He is the most agreeable and ever present liar on your premises."

MARSHALL OPPOSES EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS

Urges Public to "Soft Pedal" Politics While Foreign Relations are so Critical.

By United Press.

Washington, Sept. 24.—"I don't want to be attending vaudeville while church is going on." With this epigram Vice-president Marshall today in an interview with the United Press urged congress and the American people to "soft pedal" politics while the nation's foreign relations are critical.

He opposes, he said, the proposed extra session of the senate.

JOHN D. AMICK, AGED SCIPIO MAN, DIES SUDDENLY

Veteran of Civil War and Father of S. H. Amick, of This City, Called Thursday Evening.

Samuel H. Amick, of this city, received a message Thursday evening telling of the death of his father, John D. Amick, of Scipio. Mr. Amick had just returned from spending the day with his father, and had left him apparently as well as he has been at any time during the past few years and the news of his death, coming so shortly after leaving him, was a shock to him.

John D. Amick was born in Scott county on October 9, 1838, making his age 76 years, 11 months and 15 days. At the outbreak of the Civil War he enlisted in a regiment of Indiana volunteers and saw active service throughout the rebellion. At the close of the war he married and moved to Scipio, where he had resided ever since. Besides the widow, six sons, Albert, of Columbus, Clyde of Elmore, J. P. of Wilkinson, Charles and Elmer, of Datto, Arkansas, and Samuel H. of this city, and one daughter, Mrs. Charles Morgan, also of Arkansas, survive him.

Mr. Amick had been enjoying good health for one of his age and preparations were being made by the family to celebrate his coming birthday anniversary. Death was due to a sudden attack of heart trouble.

Mr. Amick had been living the life of a retired farmer and had often visited his son in this city, where he was known to many of the older citizens.

The funeral services will probably be held Sunday at Scipio.

FIRE PREVENTION TO GET ATTENTION

Prevent Fires," are being sent out with instructions to post them in school houses everywhere in the state. Fire drill rules also are being sent to the schools.

"The fire loss for the last eight months is $1,000,000 less than for the same period last year," the fire marshal said, "and educational work will help to bring about further reduction in the future." A special bulletin on "lightening losses," containing tables showing such losses in Indiana, and a plea for the lightning rod, is contained in the material being sent out.

A list of questions relative to the individual fire hazards of each home has been printed by the fire marshal and is being distributed. From this list the fire marshal hopes to obtain much information relative to methods to aid in reducing these individual hazards.

The questions include the following:

- Do you use safety matches?
- Are floors under stoves protected, and how?
- How are ashes disposed of?
- Of what material is the house?
- Of what material is the basement?
- Are chimneys built on the ground or on rackets?
- Are chimneys in good repair?
- Do stovepipes pass through attics, closets or unused rooms?
- Do stovepipes pass through partitions without metal protectors?
- Do you keep gasoline?
- Do you use stoves or furnaces, and what kind?
- Do you use kerosene?
- Have you any fire extinguishers?
- Do you know how to turn in an alarm?

Play House Burned.

The fire department was called to the residence of Eugene Schmitt, on West Second street, at 8:45 o'clock last night, when a play house in the rear of the house caught fire and was quickly consumed. The fire fighters' services were not required, as the blaze did not spread. There was no stove or matches around the play house, according to Mrs. Schmitt, and the cause of the blaze is unknown. The family was away from home and knew nothing of the fire until they returned.

OLD FAVORITES.

HE MIGHT HAVE BEEN SOMEBODY

HE might have been an author and have written many pages To blossom for a little hour and molder down the ages. He was clever, he was cultured, he was traveled, he could write.

But the product of his genius never seemed to seek the light.

You seldom saw his name attached to "Letters to the Press."

But he always wrote a gentle word to soothe a friend's distress.

And when he was in Petersburg and Peking and in Rome

Instead of writing "travels" he was writing letters home.

He might have been an orator and wielded words of flame

To illuminate the nation and to glorify his name.

He was able, he was tactful, he was eloquent of speech,

But he did not spread the eagle and rejoice to hear it screech.

Seldom on the public platform did he ever play a part.

But he always had a happy word to help a heavy heart.

And perhaps his cheerful speeches were too simple for the stump,

But they made a fallen friend forget he'd ever had a bump.

He might have been a scholar with a string of high degrees

And have found some hidden meaning in a play of Sophocles,

But instead of ever studying the dim and ancient letter

He was studying his little world and how to make it better.

How to do some little kindness common to the passing eye,

But which the hurried rest of us had noted and passed by.

He might have been somebody on some self enclosed plan

If he hadn't been so busy being something of a man.

—Edmund Vance Cooke.

THE BIRD LET LOOSE.

THE bird let loose in eastern skies, When hastening fondly home,

Ne'er stoops to earth her wing nor flies Where idle warblers roam,

But high she shoots through air and light, Above all low delay,

Where nothing earthly bounds her flight, Nor shadow dims her way.

SO grant me, God, from every care And stain of passion free,

Aloft, through virtue's purer air, To hold my course to thee!

No sin to cloud, no lure to stay My soul as home she springs;

Thy sunshine on her joyful way, Thy freedom in her wings!

—Thomas Moore.

SO QUEER, SO VERY QUEER.

I WROTE some lines once on a time In a wondrous, merry mood,

And thought, as usual, men would say They were exceedingly good.

They were so queer, so very queer, I laughed as I would die;

Albeit, in the general way, A sober man am I

I called my servant, and he came; How kind it was of him

To mind a slender man like me, He of the mighty limb

"These to the printer!" I exclaimed, And in my humorous way

I added (as a trifling jest), "There'll be the devil to pay!"

He took the paper, and I watched, And saw him peep within.

At the first line he read his face Was all upon the grin.

He read the next; the grin grew broad And shot from ear to ear.

He read the third, a chuckling noise I now began to hear

The fourth; he broke into a roar; The fifth; his waistband split;

The sixth; he burst five buttons off And tumbled in a fit

Ten days and nights, with sleepless eye, I watched that wretched man,

And since I never dare to write As funny as I can.

—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

"IS THERE, FOR HONEST POVERTY."

IS there, for honest poverty, That hangs his head and a

that?

The coward slave, we pass him by, We dare be poor for a that.

For a that and a that, Our toils obscure and a that.

The rank is but the guinea stamp, The man's the gowd, for a that.

that.

A KING can make a belted knight, A marquis, duke and a that,

But an honest man's aboon his might, Gild faith, he mauna fa' that—

For a that and a that, The pith o' sense and pride o' worth,

Are higher ranks than a that.

THEN let us pray that come it may—

As come it will, for a that— That sense and worth o'er all the earth

May bear the gree and a that, For a that and a that

It's comin' yet for a that, That man to man the wide world o'er

Shall brother be for a that.

—Robert Burns.

THE MUCKRAKER.

GREW once a rose within my room Of perfect hue, of perfect health;

Of such perfection and perfume It filled my poor house with its wealth.

Then came the pessimist who knew Not good or grace, but overthrew

My rose, and in the broken pot Nosed fast for slugs within the rot.

He found, found with exulting pride Deep in the loam, a worm, a slug;

The while my rose tree died.

—From Joaquin Miller's "Adios."

VANISHING FORTUNE.

WE are wreck and stray, We are cast away.

Poor battered hulks and spars, But we hope and pray,

On the judgment day, We shall strike it up in the stars.

—From Joaquin Miller's "Forty-nine."
